Education, at every level, must be recognised as a public good.

Higher education should promote co-operation and not competition.

Education International encourages international co-operation rather than globalisation and commercialisation.

No GATS requests or commitments should be made in any education-related sectors (either public or private).

Let us

- challenge the negative impact of trade agreements
- build alliances with common purpose
- build general awareness about the repercussions of the commercialisation of education

EI plays a leading role in alerting its member organisations, governments as well as international agencies to the dangers that education faces from GATS and other trade agreements.
