Together against HIV/AIDS

Education International and its partners train teachers worldwide to acquire the skills needed for HIV prevention.

Since 2002, EI member organisations have been actively involved in the training of over 50,000 teachers in more than 8,000 schools.

Over 40 million people worldwide are HIV infected and over 25 million people have already died from AIDS.

There is NO vaccine to prevent HIV infection, and still NO cure for AIDS, but you can prevent yourself from HIV infection by:

- using sterilized needles,
- abstaining from sexual intercourse,
- being faithful to one partner, and
- always using a condom.

Teachers take up the battle for life

Spread the word, NOT the virus!

EI thanks its partners for their continuing support and collaboration: World Health Organization (WHO), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), Education Development Centers (EDC), UNESCO, FNV (Netherlands) and others.
